Dear

Scouts Canada has had over a 100 year history of providing educational and adventurously fun programs to over 20 million youth and continues to reach 100,000 Canadians annually.

Scouts Canada design and relevance to the developmental needs of children far exceeds the typical programs offered at the local community centre or sports fields. Weekly meetings, outdoor and camping experiences, excursions and local, national and international events are just some of the program elements that contribute to the mental, physical, emotional and spiritual development of youth.

Recently, Scouts Canada compared itself to the Research Institute's 40 Developmental Assets. The Developmental Assets are 40 common sense, positive experiences and qualities that help influence choices young people make and help them become caring, responsible, successful adults. It wasn't surprising to Scouts Canada's that our programs significantly reflect most of the 40 Development Assets.

Enclosed you will find a document titled Scouts Canada Features and Benefits. This document outlines the various features of Scouts Canada programs, the benefit to parents, youth and relevance to the Research Institutes 40 Developmental Assets.

Scouts Canada truly understands the value its' program has in helping to enrich the over all education of young people. As an educator you might identify students who might thrive in Scouting and we have enclosed some Scouting pamphlets that you could give such a student.

Sincerely

Scouts Canada Group Commissioner
